This is a face-to-face event only. A detailed report will be drawn up.

Organized by Adéquations (with the support of the Feminists for Climate-Environment Alternatives Program) and WIDE Austria, the workshop-debate on May 22 will present the issues and productions of the European program "Gender and climate justice : issues and tools for action. This program is coordinated by the European network WIDE+ and supported by the European Union (Erasmus).

The workshop on May 22, 2024 will highlight climate justice issues such as extractivism, and encourage exchanges between actors interested in analyses, pedagogical approaches and advocacy on the intersections between gender, feminist approaches, climate and ecological transition.

Interested associations and institutions are invited to report any publications, research, educational tools, campaigns and projects related to these issues. They may be indexed in an Adéquations resource article and/or made available on site for publicity purposes. contact adequations.org
